U.S. continues support for the Bolivian National Police

The U.S. Embassy, through its Narcotics Affairs Section (NAS), presented today in Cochabamba a donation of more than 2,000 uniforms to the Police, an additional example of the U.S. government's ongoing support to the Bolivian National Police.

The U.S. Embassy is strongly committed to supporting democracy, the rule of law and the democratic institutions in the country. This commitment is expressed through the strengthening of several Bolivian programs that strengthen institutional development within the Police. Other cooperation on behalf of the National Police includes technical assistance and training. In this occasion, NAS Deputy Director Scott Danaher presided over the donation ceremony.
